

Addition sofa designed by Kaare Klint for Rud Rasmussen, Denmark
Denmark, 1933

Oak and coloured leather.

The elegant 'Addition' sofa is a classic design by the renowned Danish designer Kaare Klint and manufactured by Rud Rasmussen. Originally designed in 1933, this sofa epitomises Klint's dedication to craftsmanship and functionality. The sofa features a button-tufted leather upholstery in a rich cognac hue, adding a luxurious and tactile quality to the piece. Its clean, geometric lines reflect Klint's mastery of proportion and structure, combining minimalist aesthetics with a deep respect for traditional woodworking techniques. The solid oak legs provide a sturdy foundation, enhancing the sofa's sense of durability while keeping the design visually light. Klint designed this sofa as part of a modular system known as the 'Addition' series, where individual pieces could be combined to create flexible seating arrangements suited for smaller spaces or larger configurations. The compact nature of the sofa makes it ideal for modern interiors that require versatile and efficient furniture solutions.
